

cv Margherita Chang Ting Fa

Margherita Chang Ting Fa graduated cum laude in Economics and Business at the University of Pavia. Since 1991 she is full professor of Agricultural and Landscape Economics in the Faculty of Agrarian Sciences - University of Udine. She held also the chair of "Agricultural Economics and Policy" and the course of "Urban and Rural Appraisal" in two of the most prestigious Italian Universities (Turin, Faculty of Economics and Business - and Polytechnic of Milan, Faculty of Architecture). She was from 1983 to 1986 member of the National University Council, the advisory body of the Italian Ministry of Education as representative of university researchers. She has served as Liaison Officer for Italy of the International Association of Agricultural Economists (IAAE -from 1992 to 2000) and as Director (2006-2010) of the Department of Biology and Agribusiness Economics at the University of Udine (Italy). At present she is Editor of the International Journal "Agribusiness Landscape & Environment Management". She has been member of the Administrative Council of the University of Udine since 2003 as representative of Full professors. Since 1998-99, she has been serving as Coordinator of the research doctorate program (Ph.D.) in "Economics Ecology and Protection of the Agricultural and Landscape-environmental Systems" of the University of Udine. T.F.M. Chang is Author of numerous publications in the following fields: a) agribusiness economics; b) agriculture in underdeveloped overcrowded countries (especially of East Asia); c) resources and landscape planning; d) methodological problems concerning the implementation of hierarchical algorithms (triangulation of I-O matrixes, cluster, clumping and so on) and the systems of national accounts (environmental included; e) landscape and environmental economics